Dear Miss Brunson:

I am home for only a couple of days and am now leaving until Christmastime.

I read your letter and found it interesting, altho I do not believe the President was shot from as close as you believe. Perhaps when you read my new book (sent under separate cover) you may have some new ideas.

The postal inspector assures me there is no cover on my mail. This came out during the course of an investigation of my complaints about nondelivery of books mailed from here.

Sincerely,

Harold Weisberg
